

More Funding Support For Camden Tigers Football Club

Elderton Homes has agreed for the second year in a row to support one of the biggest football clubs in Sydney – Camden Tigers Football Club. The club now supports over 1100 players and 100 teams. The partnership with Elderton Homes will provide funding for playing jerseys, coaches and equipment for the junior, senior and development teams. Both males and females play with ages ranging from 5 to 17 years.

John Castellano, General Manager – Sales & Marketing for Elderton Homes comments, “I played several team sports throughout my school years and appreciate the comradery and physical benefits associated. Sports organisations, particularly those that focus on grassroots activities, play an integral role in society by helping keep kids active. The club continues to expand and we look forward to growing with them and supporting their successes.”

Jason Thompson, Executive Committee, Camden Tigers Football Club said, “Every weekend we attract thousands of people to our games. We keep growing which is great and service the Macarthur region, from Macquarie Fields to Picton. The support from Elderton Homes again this year will further assist with the growth and development of our players. The development teams that Elderton Homes sponsored last year has seen a number of these players selected as part of the Youth League and National Premier League in 2018.

“The aim of the club is to help young people move into local and representative football leagues. There are endless opportunities to progress through the ranks in the game. Coaches, equipment and jerseys cost significant money. We need the support of companies like Elderton Homes to continue the great work we undertake in the community.”

Since inception in 2009, Elderton Homes has supported several causes across greater Sydney including Cure Brain Cancer Foundation, Red Nose Day, The Humpty Dumpty Foundation, Muscular Dystrophy NSW, Jeans for Genes Day and John Palmer Public School.
